Wood and construction moisture measuring device with rugged hand-held electrode

Rev. 0511

- Versatile measuring device: As well as being used to detect moisture in soft construction materials such as gypsum or plaster, this device is particularly well suited to performing fast checks when working with wood.
- Hand-held electrode: Ergonomic grip for easy insertion into the material to be measured; specially designed for hard wood and soft building materials.
- Checks that firewood is dry in order to save energy and reduce pollutants.
- Conversion table: For assessing material moisture based on measurement results; for various types of wood and building materials.
- Simple handling: Insert the electrode spikes into the material and read the measured value from the LCD immediately.
- Simple one-button operation
- LCD with bar display: Measured values (wood and building moisture) can be read quickly from the large clear dual scale.
- Self-test function: A reference measurement in the protective cap verifies the accuracy of the measuring device.
